

Public Involvement in Miscarriage Studies

Would you like to help shape research into recurrent miscarriage?

We'd like to hear what you think is important

We are asking people who have experienced recurrent miscarriage to give us their valuable opinion about research in this area.

By joining the Public Involvement in Miscarriages Studies (PIMS) Group you can make a difference by:

- Using your experience to identify research that is important
- Helping to design research studies
- Developing understandable information for people taking part in research
- Helping to interpret research results and ensure they are reported in an understandable way

For more information or if you would like to join the Public Involvement in Miscarriage Studies (PIMS) please email PIMS@uhcw.nhs.uk or scan the QR code
